GFWC Supports Veterans with Honor Flight

On Tuesday, April 25, GFWC International President Sheila E. Shea, clubwomen, and staff had the privilege of welcoming veterans on the West Central Florida Honor Flight Mission 29 to the Air Force Memorial in Arlington, Virginia. Meeting with these veterans and welcoming them to D.C. was a humbling experience, but only one component of the Honor Flight program. These veterans have a very busy schedule, leaving Florida early in the morning, visiting memorials in D.C., and then returning home the same day.

Thanks to volunteers like the clubwomen of GFWC Florida, these veterans are sent off and welcomed home in fashion. GFWC Florida is involved in the entire Honor Flight in several ways, one of which is sponsoring soldier guardians who accompany the serviceman or woman for their day in D.C. In addition, clubwomen don their red, white, and blue and wait with signs for the return of the veterans at the St. Petersburg-Clearwater International Airport to welcome them home and to thank them for their service. A band plays old songs as well as songs for different branches of military service. Clubwomen applaud the veterans and spend time with them to learn about their experiences and what their day in D.C. was like.

"I have had many a WWII serviceman cry on my shoulder and say that it was the best day of his life," said Carole Weaver, GFWC Florida President.

In addition to sponsoring guardians, GFWC Florida clubwomen support the Honor Flight by writing letters of appreciation for the veterans to read on the flight. The GFWC Fabulous Florida Flamingo Flock Cyber Club wrote so many letters that there are enough for the veterans of the next four flights.

Help GFWC Tennessee Win a $100,000 to Promote Literacy

Last December, under the leadership of President Linda Hershey, GFWC Tennessee members made the world's largest children's book tree consisting of 10,300 books. Now, GFWC Tennessee is looking to continue to promote literacy by competing in Gannett's ACT (A Community Thrives) Grant Program. If they win, GFWC Tennessee clubwomen would use the $100,000 grant to build children's book Christmas trees at hospitals throughout the state. GFWC Tennessee also plans to reach the Guinness Book of World Records for the largest pyramid made of children's books. Help GFWC Tennessee win the grant so they can promote literacy! Visit <http://act.usatoday.com/submit-an-idea/#/gallery/60443919>, where you can vote for the project daily until May 12. Share the link with your club members and encourage them to vote for this great cause. Gannett will choose a winner from the ten finalists with the most votes, so let's help GFWC Tennessee receive a grant for their book tree project.

You can use your smartphone to film the video. Once you're happy with the video, email it to pr@gfwc.org. Videos will be shared on the GFWC Facebook page, and members will vote for their favorites. Get Ready for the 2017 GFWC Annual Convention

Are you attending the 2017 GFWC Annual Convention in Palm Springs, California? If so, take a few moments to read the latest GFWC blog post, 17 thoughts for the 2017 Annual Convention. The article will help you to prepare and detail the many wonderful events taking place during Convention.

- GFWC has contracted a $1 per night resort fee with the JW Marriott. If your reservation or final bill shows anything other than $1 per day, please contact GFWC staff.
- In a slight departure from recent Conventions, state/group photos will be taken on two evenings—EC States and WSR States on Friday and the remaining states scheduled on Saturday.
- Remember to wear comfortable clothing and flat shoes on the “Soaring Heights and Celebrity Sites” tour. Temperatures at the summit can be 30 degrees cooler than on the ground...which may make the mountaintop the most pleasant place to be outside in late June.
- To follow along with Resolutions and Bylaws discussions, we advise bringing the Call to Convention found in the March/April issue of Clubwoman Magazine. The Call to Convention is also located on the GFWC.org website.

A Home Away from Home for Military Families

Fisher House Foundation is a network of homes where military and veterans' families stay free of charge while their loved ones receive medical treatment. The homes are located near major military and VA medical centers nationwide. Over the last 27 years, Fisher House has saved military and veterans' families an estimated $360 million in out of pocket cost for lodging and transportation.

After being introduced to the Fisher House Foundation through a fundraiser of the GFWC Sokico Women's Club, GFWC Washington President Tina Bair selected support of the Foundation as the Special Project for her administration. Having four brothers and a sister who served in the armed forces, President Bair has a clear understanding of how much the services provided by Fisher House mean to the military community.

While Fisher Houses have full-time salaried managers, they rely on volunteers such as GFWC Washington clubwomen to enhance daily operations. Volunteer opportunities at Fisher Houses include: bringing meals and snacks for residents, helping with general housekeeping chores, and organizing drives for items such as paper products and cleaning supplies.

GFWC Washington clubwomen have proven very generous in their support of the project. From bringing non-perishable food items to the fall board meeting to donating boxes upon boxes of paper products, the clubwomen have truly taken the cause to heart. One club even provided a Super Bowl party with all of the requisite food items for a family staying at the local house.

GFWC Lilburn Woman's Club Wins Grant from the Allstate Foundation

Congratulations to the GFWC Lilburn Woman's Club (LWC) (Georgia) for being recognized by the Allstate Foundation as a positive force for change in their community. The Allstate Foundation offers several grant programs to support charitable organizations where Allstate agency owners and employees volunteer. It is thanks to LWC's newest member, Arthy White, that her club was considered for recognition and given a grant.

Arthy, who is a 5-year cancer survivor, has requested that part of the grant be used to support the Lilburn Relay for Life. While the club participates in the Relay each year, this year's donation will be covered in full due to the Allstate grant. In addition to their annual donation, club members also hosted a reception for more than 60 cancer survivors and their caregivers prior to the event. After the reception, the survivors gathered together to take the first lap around Lilburn City Park surrounded by family and friends who cheered them.

Relay for Life, the signature fundraiser for the American Cancer Society, takes place in 5,200 communities and 27 countries. During the event, teams such as the Lilburn Woman's Club take turns walking around a track. Each event is 6 to 24 hours in length and each team is asked to have a member on the track at all times to signify that cancer never sleeps. If your club is interested in forming a Relay team, click here to learn more.

We thank clubwoman Patty Gabilondo for sharing this story with GFWC Headquarters.
